Dear Friend:

The launching of the Sputniks is a powerful reminder to all of us that a nation's future greatness cannot be assured solely by its past triumphs. Nevertheless, we are confident that with determination and bold imagination we shall successfully meet the Soviet challenge in the natural sciences.

On the other hand, the full stature of the dynamics of America will not be attained until there is a breakthrough in the science of our foreign relations. It is here where we have made little progress in achieving what all of our people long for, namely, a lasting and just peace.

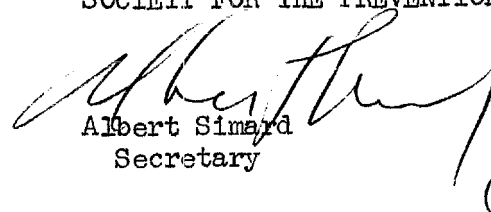

It is to this key problem that the Society has dedicated its educational work through the years. Towards this end the Society has maintained a steady distribution of its literature, including tens of thousands of its magazine PREVENT WORLD WAR III, to members, educational institutions, newspaper editors, libraries, government officials, and all other individuals and groups who have requested its material.

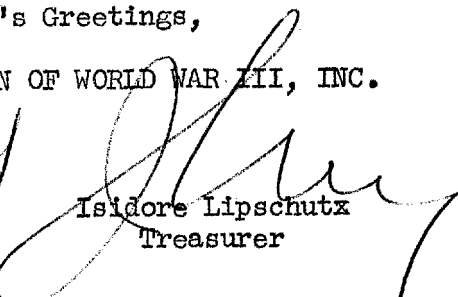

We are determined to carry on along these lines but this will necessitate your generous support.

All contributions should be addressed to the SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF WORLD WAR III, INC., 515 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N.Y.

With Season's Greetings,

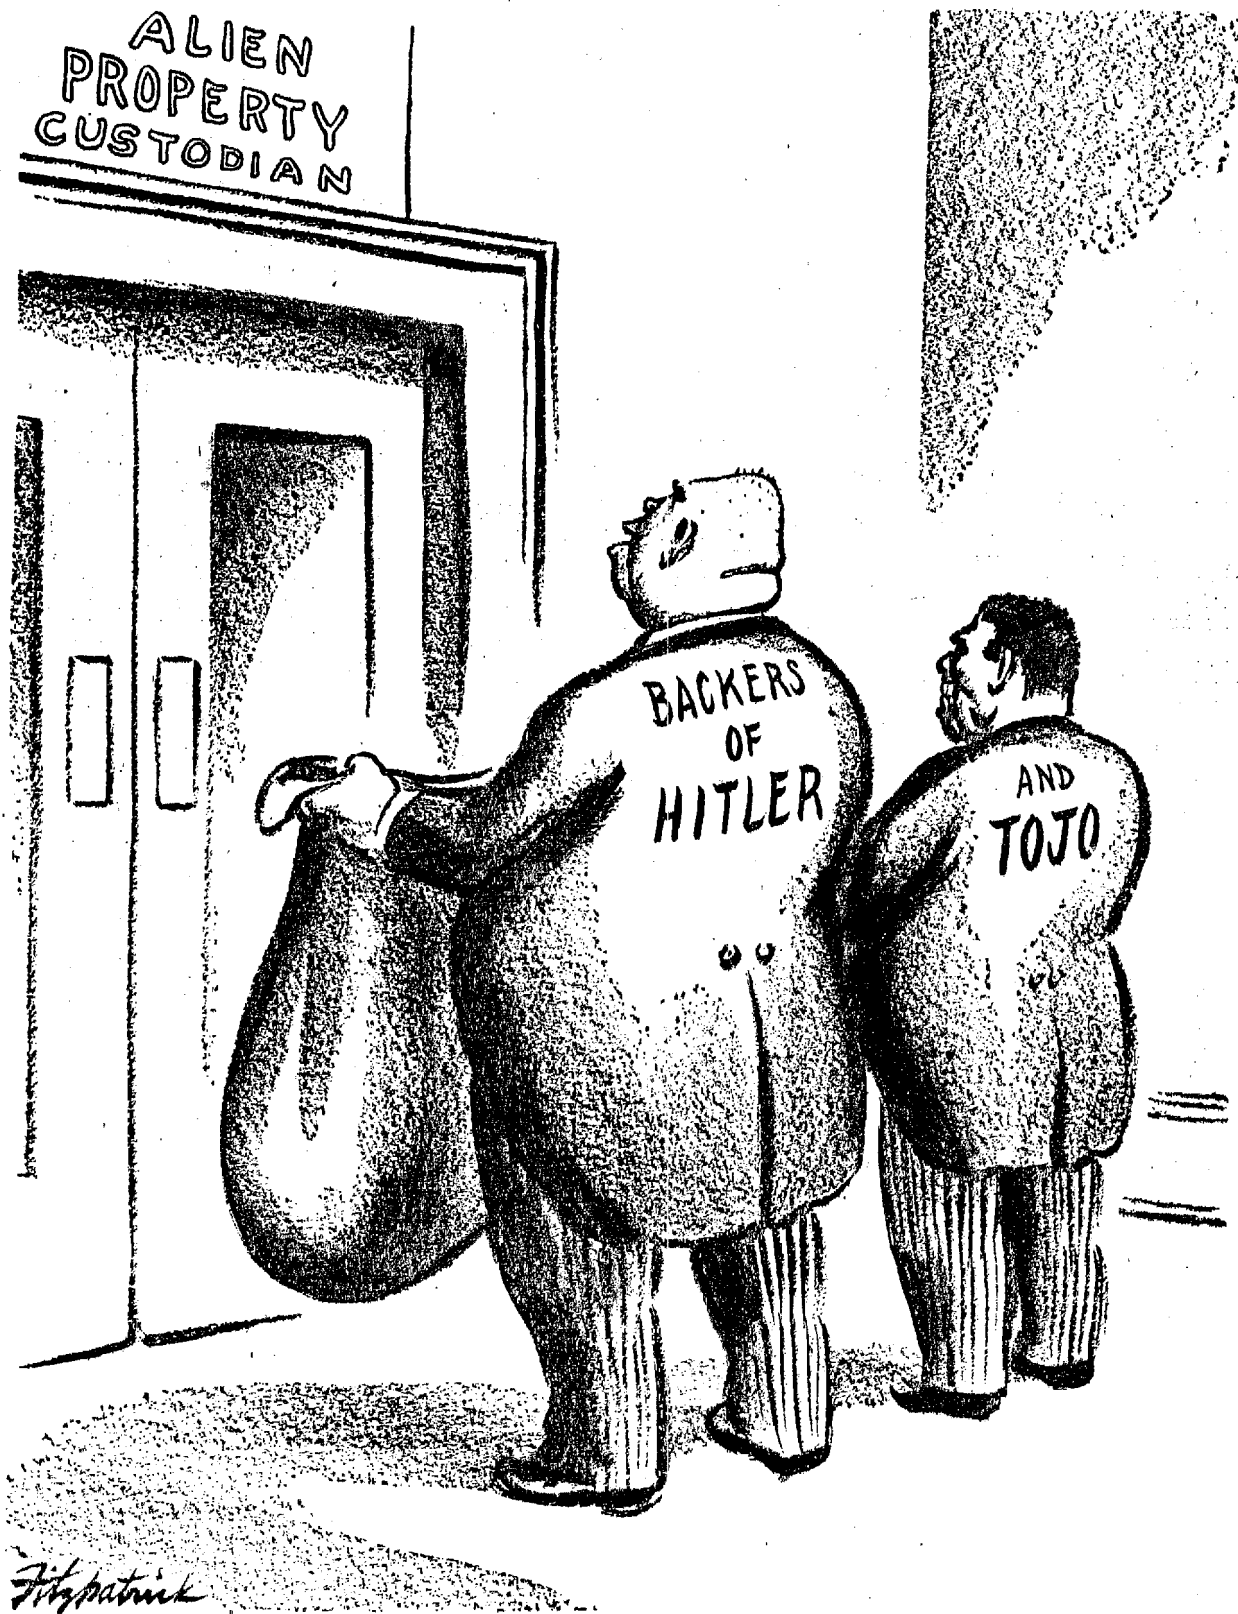

SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF WORLD WAR III, INC.

Albert Simard
Secretary

Isidore Lipschutz
Treasurer

P.S. "The Science of Foreign Policy" and other problems associated with the conduct of U.S. foreign relations are discussed in greater length in the No. 51 issue of PREVENT WORLD WAR III which you will receive in the near future.
